About Us:

The Mid-South Workers' Compensation Association, Inc. (MSWCA) is a non-profit organization formed in September 1990 for the purpose of creating an organization, which would focus on the needs of the professionals who handle workers' compensation claims.

The MSWCA is an educational association. Our goal is to further the knowledge of our members by means of speakers at our meetings, as well as by the exchange of information and ideas between our members.

We have the opportunity to listen to a variety of speakers who have different roles in the workers' compensation system. These meetings provide members with opportunities to improve their claims management skills and exchange ideas with others that share their problems and concerns. The ability to network with other professionals involved in the workers' compensation system affords an opportunity for members to identify a wide variety of community resources available to them through the association.

The members of the Association represents employers, insurance professionals, occupational health nurses, medical providers, safety consultants, rehabilitation consultants, law offices, third party administrators and other organizations with a substantial interest and/or involvement in worker's compensation. There are three chapters in Tennessee, with Memphis Chapter being the founding chapter. The Nashville and Knoxville Chapters were formed following the success of the Memphis Chapter.
